

The Women's Prize for Playwriting

Script Submission 2023

Section 1: Overview

Thank you for your interest in submitting your play to the Women's Prize for Playwriting 2023!

In this form, you'll be asked to:

- confirm that your submission meets our eligibility criteria
- give us your name and contact details
- tell us about your play
- fill out an Equal Opportunities form, describing your professional and personal background.

Questions with an asterisk (*) are compulsory.

Please note that submissions should not be anonymous. You may use a pseudonym if you wish – we just need a valid email address so that we can contact you.

When you've filled out the form, please put your name in the file name and email it – along with a copy of your script – to: submissions@womensprizeforplaywriting.co.uk.

When you've submitted

Reading

Once we've got your script, we'll assign it to our panel of expert readers, which includes theatre professionals from a range of backgrounds, locations and professional roles.

The readers and Prize team will then work to determine a longlist, which we expect to announce in early October – and, for there, we'll select a shortlist to send to our judging panel.

Judging

Our judges are experts in their field, spanning theatre, arts and the media.

From our shortlist, they'll pick the winner of the Women's Prize for Playwriting 2023 – who will be announced in December.

The data we collect

The Equal Opportunities section of the submission helps us to understand who is submitting to the Women's Prize for Playwriting, and their journey to doing so.

We use it to evaluate our work and strategy, both internally and for our funders.

Due to the importance of Equal Opportunities monitoring, this section of the form is compulsory – but all personal questions include a 'Prefer not to say' option.

The information you give will be anonymised and stored separately from submissions – it's not seen by readers or judges.

Any other questions

If you have any further questions, please check the FAQs page of our website. If you have any further issues, or would prefer to submit in another way, feel free to email us:

submissions@womensprizeforplaywriting.co.uk.

Okay then!

Let's start.

Section 2: Eligibility

First, please confirm that your submission meets our entry criteria by typing an 'x' in the check box

Your eligibility *

The Women's Prize for Playwriting is open to writers who are:

- female or non-binary
- aged sixteen or older
- resident in the UK, Republic of Ireland or in a British Overseas Territory, or have a British Forces Post Office address.

Do you confirm that you meet the entry criteria?

I confirm I meet the criteria

The play's eligibility *

Submitted scripts must:

- be written for stage
- be an original work (i.e. not an adaptation)
- last an hour or more in playing time
- not have been professionally produced (i.e. no more than five ticketed performances, and no professional reviews)
- not have received any other prizes or awards.

Do you confirm that your play meets the entry criteria?

I confirm my play meets the criteria

Further criteria *

You must:

- own all copyright relating to the script
- submit only one script
- include your name on the first page of the script, and in the file name.

Do you confirm and agree to the above?

I confirm and agree to the above

Section 3: Your details

Please give us your name and contact details.

If your play is written by more than one person, please:

- give all writers' names, separated by commas
- provide the email address and mobile number of the first named writer – they'll be who we contact.

Name *

Type your name here

Email address *

Type your email here

Mobile number *

Please use your country dialling code instead of a zero (e.g. +44 for a UK number).

We'll only call you if we need to discuss your submission to this year's Prize (e.g. if your email bounces back).

Type your number here

Section 4: Your play

Title *

Type your answer here

Logline *

Please summarise the play in a sentence or two.

Supporting statement

If you'd like to give some additional context to the play, then please do.

It's not compulsory, but can help our reading team and judges make more informed decisions about your submission – particularly in later rounds.

Some areas to touch on might include:

- why you wrote the play, or your intentions for it
- where it is in its development, or anything you'd want to work on if you were to develop it further.

This doesn't have to be an essay – bullet points are fine – and if you'd prefer to submit a voice recording or video instead, please attach it with the play and this form.

Section 5: Equal Opportunities

In this section, we'll ask you about your professional and personal background. This is to help us understand the journeys writers take to enter the Prize.

We use this information to evaluate our work, both internally and for our funders, and to develop our strategy for supporting writers.

Due to the importance of Equal Opportunities monitoring, many questions are compulsory – but all these include a 'Prefer not to say' option.

The information you give will be anonymised and stored separately from submissions – it's not seen by readers or judges.

Please type an 'x' in the appropriate boxes.
